

My wife and I moved to the Garrison Villages about four months ago -- and we're glad we did. We love the trees. We love our neighbors. And except for the leaf blowers on Tuesday mornings, we love the quiet.

At the same time, we realize that it takes a lot of work to make this a nice place to live . . .

And in the years ahead -- what with an aging infrastructure, residents who ain't getting any younger, and a real estate market that's gone absolutely insane . . . then it's probably going to take even more work to keep this a nice place to live.

That's why we have a Board -- and that's why I'd like to work with this Board. I'm a retired pastor who's pretty good at listening, pretty good at talking, and pretty good at working with people who are smarter than I am.

In short, I'd like to work with the people who are working to keep this a nice place to live.

That's why I'd like to serve on our Board.
